

Suitcase as map for your workshop expectations

Based on an idea of the media kit of Baden Württemberg ¹- revised for the workshop

The suitcase can be copied or drawn and given to the participants at the beginning of the workshop with the instruction to visualise their experience. It is about experiences, problems, expectations regarding the workshop but also about a personal approach (interest in the city, own motto for the workshop).

The "suitcase" should allow an individual reflection of the workshop contents and should be treated confidentially. Participants who want to share their experiences at the end of the seminar are welcome to do so.

The Action Research Suitcase is a map for your workshop expectations.

Copy the drawing of a suitcase asking participants to do the following:

1. Try to visualise your expectations towards:

- the seminar
- the group
- yourself

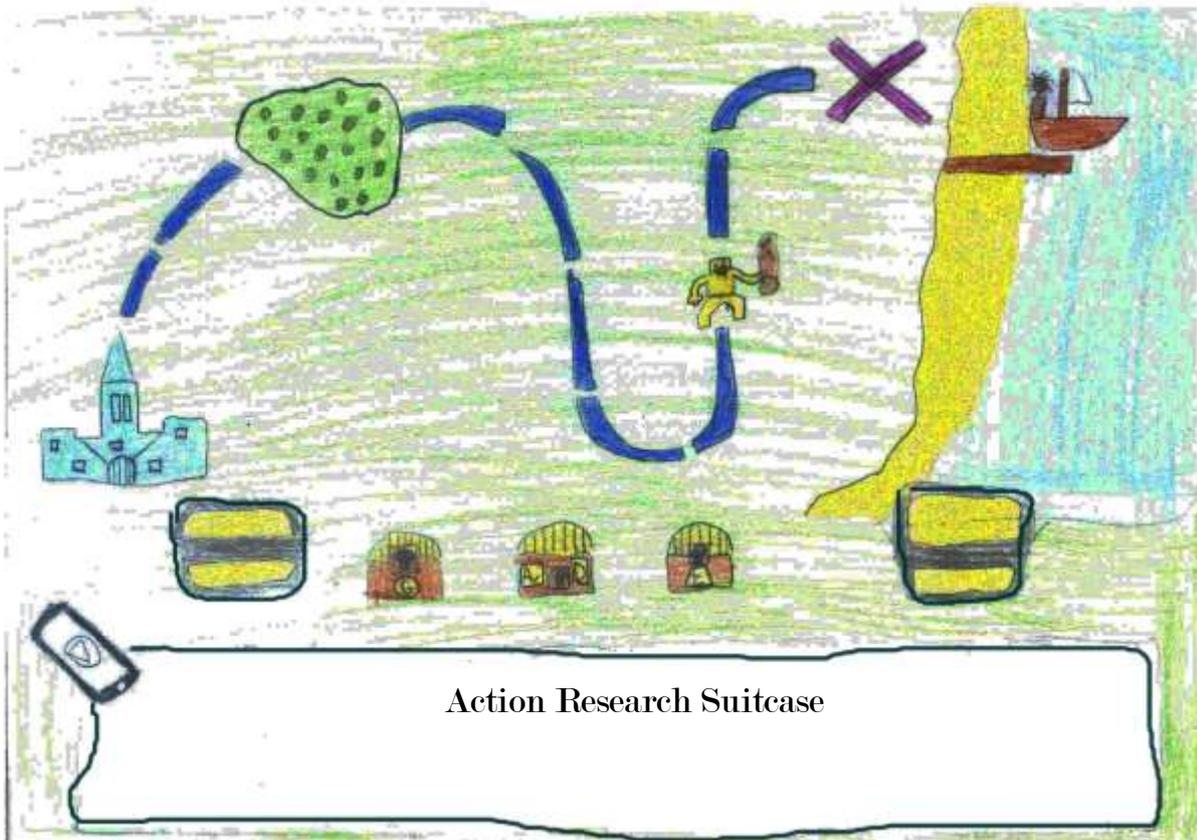

Write down your experiences with action research and your thoughts about problems that might arise

2. Think about who you are:

- Your name and your strength as a person and a professional.
- What do you want to do in your spare time in the city/environment where the workshop takes place.
- Create your motto for the days at the seminar.
